For more than a decade Osler has served as counsel to some of Canada's most innovative and leading technology startups and growth stage investors who invest in tech. Companies like Clearco, Wealthsimple and Hopper are rapidly becoming game changers in the sectors they operate. Often starting with an idea to make a process or experience better, these founders are using technology to better the world. From the formation stage right through to exit, our Emerging and High Growth Companies Group provides early stage companies access to a multi-disciplinary team working from offices across the firm. Through multiple financing rounds, acquisitions, and other mission critical legal projects, Osler helps founders realize their dreams.
