Jennifer Camwell

Director, Client & Business Development

Calgary
(403) 592-7139
jcamwell@osler.com

In her role as Director, Client and Business Development in Osler's Calgary office, Jennifer works closely with partners and a multidisciplinary team to strengthen the firm's market position, drive revenue growth, and enhance the client experience. She plays a key role in identifying opportunities, developing strategic initiatives, and guiding the implementation of programs that reinforce the firm's presence across the industries it serves.

Jennifer began her career in the energy sector, holding progressive corporate roles that supported operations across both North American and international jurisdictions. This experience gave her a strong commercial foundation and a practical understanding of the business context in which many of Osler's clients operate. Since transitioning into the legal services sector, she has leveraged this industry insight and peer-firm perspective to enhance client service and strengthen market positioning.

Based in Calgary, Jennifer supports a range of practice groups and leads business development nationally for Osler's Energy group. In this role, she strengthens client relationships, identifies emerging opportunities, and advances long-term strategic priorities.
