Kurtis Bond is a partner in Osler's National Tax Group with 20 years of tax experience. His in-house experience as a senior tax executive at a multinational energy company, participation in industry organizations and private practice experience give him an invaluable client perspective on the interaction of tax, business and policy considerations.

Kurtis advises a diverse client base, ranging from public companies to high net-worth individuals, on a wide variety of tax matters. These include structured investments, various cross-border and commercial transactions, corporate reorganizations, partnerships and joint ventures, as well as audits and dispute resolution matters.
